The version I read was the third edition from 2010. Nagel's The History of Islamic Theology was translated from German into English by Thomas Thornton. I used this textbook in an Islamic Theology course during the fall semester of 2018. The book was not the best book to use as a textbook for an introductory course. The German Professor at the University of Gottingen who was an expert on Islam, Tilman Nagel wrote a book titled The History of Islamic Theology: From Muhammad to the Present in 2000. The version I read was the third edition from 2010. Nagel's The History of Islamic Theology was translated from German into English by Thomas Thornton. The professor of my course thought that Nagel did a good job of dealing with the relationship between "Islam and Gnosis" in Chapter Seven. Nagel writes that "although one can hardly speak of a truly Gnostic reversion of Islam's central message, Gnostic ideas infiltrated Islamic intellectual life in connection with other traditions of late antiquity from the early Middle Ages on" (225). The chapter on "Islam and Gnosis" is an interesting chapter in the book. Nagel's The History of Islamic Theology is probably a fine introduction to Islamic Theology for a reader with knowledge of Islamic Theology, but Nagel's and Thornton's styles of writings is a bit confusing for a non-Muslim-like me with no prior experience with theology. This book is best for people with prior knowledge of Islamic Theology. —more Albert rated it really liked it Feb 06, 2016 Ahmed rated it it was amazing Aug 16, 2021 Muhammed is currently reading it Sep 04, 2014 Ali marked it as to-read Feb 04, 2010 Sabah marked it as to-read Jan 01, 2016 Zakaria marked it as to-read Jul 05, 2016 Hany marked it as to-read Sep 08, 2016 Hamza marked it as to-read Jan 18, 2017 Merve marked it as to-read Oct 18, 2017 Cory marked it as to-read Dec 11, 2017 Iyad marked it as to-read Jan 06, 2018 Jason marked it as to-read Feb 13, 2018 Chris marked it as to-read Mar 16, 2018 This ground-breaking series, edited by one of the most influential scholars of Islamic law, presents a cumulative and progressive set of original studies that substantially raise the bar for rigorous scholarship in the field of Islamic Studies. By relying on original sources and challenging common scholarly stereotypes and inherited wisdoms, the volumes of the series attest to the exacting and demanding methodological and pedagogical standards necessary for contemporary studies of Islam. These volumes are chosen not only for their disciplined methodology, exhaustive research, or academic authoritativeness, but for their ability to make critical interventions in the process of understanding the world of Islam as it was, is, and is likely to become. They make central and even pivotal contributions to understanding the experience of the lived and living Islam, and the ways that this rich and creative Islamic tradition has been created and uncreated, or constructed, deconstructed, and reconstructed. In short, the volumes of this series are chosen for their great relevance to the many realities that shaped the ways that Muslims understand, represent, and practice their religion, and ultimately, to understanding the worlds that Muslims helped to shape, and in turn, the worlds that helped shaped Muslims.
